

STATE OF TEXAS
OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR

Texas is a diverse state, home to a rich tapestry of cultures that reflect the many people from near and far who have settled here to seek their dreams for the future. From this diversity come the ingenuity, vision, and enterprise that are our renowned hallmarks of excellence. Among this state's greatest assets, Americans of Scottish descent excel throughout today's Texas.

Each November, across the Lone Star State, we celebrate the Day of the Scots. On this day, we recognize the many contributions of Scottish Americans. In celebration on this day of recognition, cultural events, among them Highland games and festivals, are held, keeping treasured traditions and a proud heritage and history alive.

Events that embrace our diversity and promote awareness of our many backgrounds add to the dynamic spirit and vitality of our great state and nation.

I encourage all Texans to reflect upon and acknowledge the achievements of Scottish Americans. Their excellence has contributed immeasurably to the Texas of today and the promise of tomorrow.

Therefore, I, Rick Perry, Governor of Texas, do hereby proclaim
November 30, 2006,

Day of the Scots

in Texas, and urge the appropriate recognition whereof.

In official recognition whereof,
I hereby affix my signature this, the 14th day of November, 2006.

Rick Perry
Governor of Texas
